

Our theory, so frequently presented to the readers of this paper, of the cause of the signed revolt in Douglas within the principles of the Republicans, with whom they have been at variance, is this: Hence we are and as always have been, the friends of the South, by which Mr. Douglas will surrender to his masters of the South all that he has ever "handed to us" or should have the secession of the day, or that they should be the executors of favorite commands by the organ of each of the waging parties. The furnish an opportunity for the South to do what they have always done, and that is to sell out and sacrifice the well-being and interests of their country to the hold up.

2d. That Douglas is willing to sell out and sacrifice the well-being and interests of his friends to the hold up.

3d. That Mr. Buchanan is willing to buy, and.

3d. That nothing but a lingering respect for the documents and constitutions of political life, prevents the consideration of the logical conclusion.

Douglas is willing, as are the Republicans, the opponents of both, and we see no reason why the South should not be proclaimed at once. We have always been of the opinion that by the diversion in Mr. Douglas' favor, by the Republicans who would have struck him down in 1856, the country had lost a man of the first rank, no possible substitute having been found for the services of the second, to the modest advantages of old Doug or the modest blunders of the Little Giant. That as the Washington Union hath it, they may all pig together, is evident that is more than any other to be wished for by all who desire a pure Republican triumph in this Presidential election for which all parties are preparing. It is clear that the South has a most important and efficient part. He considers the people of the South as the main arm who are to struggle for a victory.

When the Times and World "concluded," and set up the about "Hoary for Buchanan and Doug," we will publish the particulars of the writing. Meanwhile we are to indicate our observations of the country.

POLITICAL INDEPENDENCE.

We are among the number who believe that the world is on the whole growing wiser and better with each passing year. The principles of our holy religion are obtaining more and more sway over the minds of all classes of men, and especially pervade and control the minds of society more certainly than in any former period.

While we believe this is truly true in regard to our own and all other civilized nations even a casual student of the principles which have been taught in the schools of the world, will easily discern that they have placed in the heart of national education and the principles, by which it is now governed, and those which source for that party its triumphs when General Jackson's looks on to certain victory.

Whatever occurs the future history will be the history of the states, of the country, of the world. The South and those that may be born of her, and those that will be born of the South, will be the leaders of the world, and those that will be born of the South, will be the leaders of the world.

After the election of Mr. Buchanan and Mr. Doug, the old Whig party gave up the country to two Presidents, Gen. Harrison and Gen. Taylor, residing early in their respective terms; in the second term of Mr. Taylor, he enjoyed the enviable distinction of being the meanest and the most vacillating of the Presidents, till the corrupt, truckling policy of "poor Doug" found its client in the falsehood and the imbecility of James Buchanan.

As to the old Whig party, it is to be regretted that they were unable to hold him above the position of a third-rate "Terror-bogy." The entire line of Buchanan Presidents since the days of Van Buren have been rejected for their devotion to the interests of the slave power, and their administrations have demonstrated that the only oligarchy of the South were not mistaken in the instruments which they selected to carry out their schemes. Each successive administration has done its best to cast a shadow over the downward course of political decisiveness.

As the men whom the dominant party have placed in the executive chair have degenerated in the scale of political morality, so the principles of that party have become more and more the property of kind wherewhile. Slave was recognized, it is true, in the formation of that which was to be mitigated and removed in the wisest way, and at the earliest day possible. The good men and the patriots of the country, both north and south, held this opinion unanimously and expressed in the laws of the South in the days of the formation of the government; till slavery was to be the ruling policy of the government; till slavery was generally abolished in the states of the South, and in the Missouri Compromise in 1820. The entire legislation of the government, the earlier laws of nearly all the thirteen States, the Declaration of Independence, and the documents of the country, with the exception of the Constitution, the laws of the country, and the decisions of the country, with the exception of John C. Calhoun down to 1850, show that freedom was, and was to be, the ruling policy of the government; till slavery was generally abolished.

If anything can be proven from the history of the country, it certainly is a well settled fact that it originated in a love of liberty and the pursuit of happiness, and in the right of self-government of all men, and that it was recognized, it is true, in the formation of that which was to be mitigated and removed in the wisest way, and at the earliest day possible.

The good men and the patriots of the country, both north and south, held this opinion unanimously and expressed in the laws of the South in the days of the formation of the government; till slavery was to be the ruling policy of the government; till slavery was generally abolished.

As to the old Whig party, it is to be regretted that they were unable to hold him above the position of a third-rate "Terror-bogy."

The entire line of Buchanan Presidents since the days of Van Buren have been rejected for their devotion to the interests of the slave power, and their administrations have demonstrated that the only oligarchy of the South were not mistaken in the instruments which they selected to carry out their schemes.

As to the old Whig party, it is to be regretted that they were unable to hold him above the position of a third-rate "Terror-bogy."

The entire line of Buchanan Presidents since the days of Van Buren have been rejected for their devotion to the interests of the slave power, and their administrations have demonstrated that the only oligarchy of the South were not mistaken in the instruments which they selected to carry out their schemes.

As to the old Whig party, it is to be regretted that they were unable to hold him above the position of a third-rate "Terror-bogy."

The entire line of Buchanan Presidents since the days of Van Buren have been rejected for their devotion to the interests of the slave power, and their administrations have demonstrated that the only oligarchy of the South were not mistaken in the instruments which they selected to carry out their schemes.

As to the old Whig party, it is to be regretted that they were unable to hold him above the position of a third-rate "Terror-bogy."

The entire line of Buchanan Presidents since the days of Van Buren have been rejected for their devotion to the interests of the slave power, and their administrations have demonstrated that the only oligarchy of the South were not mistaken in the instruments which they selected to carry out their schemes.

As to the old Whig party, it is to be regretted that they were unable to hold him above the position of a third-rate "Terror-bogy."

The entire line of Buchanan Presidents since the days of Van Buren have been rejected for their devotion to the interests of the slave power, and their administrations have demonstrated that the only oligarchy of the South were not mistaken in the instruments which they selected to carry out their schemes.

As to the old Whig party, it is to be regretted that they were unable to hold him above the position of a third-rate "Terror-bogy."

The entire line of Buchanan Presidents since the days of Van Buren have been rejected for their devotion to the interests of the slave power, and their administrations have demonstrated that the only oligarchy of the South were not mistaken in the instruments which they selected to carry out their schemes.

As to the old Whig party, it is to be regretted that they were unable to hold him above the position of a third-rate "Terror-bogy."

The entire line of Buchanan Presidents since the days of Van Buren have been rejected for their devotion to the interests of the slave power, and their administrations have demonstrated that the only oligarchy of the South were not mistaken in the instruments which they selected to carry out their schemes.

As to the old Whig party, it is to be regretted that they were unable to hold him above the position of a third-rate "Terror-bogy."

The entire line of Buchanan Presidents since the days of Van Buren have been rejected for their devotion to the interests of the slave power, and their administrations have demonstrated that the only oligarchy of the South were not mistaken in the instruments which they selected to carry out their schemes.

As to the old Whig party, it is to be regretted that they were unable to hold him above the position of a third-rate "Terror-bogy."

The entire line of Buchanan Presidents since the days of Van Buren have been rejected for their devotion to the interests of the slave power, and their administrations have demonstrated that the only oligarchy of the South were not mistaken in the instruments which they selected to carry out their schemes.

As to the old Whig party, it is to be regretted that they were unable to hold him above the position of a third-rate "Terror-bogy."

The entire line of Buchanan Presidents since the days of Van Buren have been rejected for their devotion to the interests of the slave power, and their administrations have demonstrated that the only oligarchy of the South were not mistaken in the instruments which they selected to carry out their schemes.

As to the old Whig party, it is to be regretted that they were unable to hold him above the position of a third-rate "Terror-bogy."

The entire line of Buchanan Presidents since the days of Van Buren have been rejected for their devotion to the interests of the slave power, and their administrations have demonstrated that the only oligarchy of the South were not mistaken in the instruments which they selected to carry out their schemes.

As to the old Whig party, it is to be regretted that they were unable to hold him above the position of a third-rate "Terror-bogy."

The entire line of Buchanan Presidents since the days of Van Buren have been rejected for their devotion to the interests of the slave power, and their administrations have demonstrated that the only oligarchy of the South were not mistaken in the instruments which they selected to carry out their schemes.

As to the old Whig party, it is to be regretted that they were unable to hold him above the position of a third-rate "Terror-bogy."

The entire line of Buchanan Presidents since the days of Van Buren have been rejected for their devotion to the interests of the slave power, and their administrations have demonstrated that the only oligarchy of the South were not mistaken in the instruments which they selected to carry out their schemes.

As to the old Whig party, it is to be regretted that they were unable to hold him above the position of a third-rate "Terror-bogy."

The entire line of Buchanan Presidents since the days of Van Buren have been rejected for their devotion to the interests of the slave power, and their administrations have demonstrated that the only oligarchy of the South were not mistaken in the instruments which they selected to carry out their schemes.

As to the old Whig party, it is to be regretted that they were unable to hold him above the position of a third-rate "Terror-bogy."

The entire line of Buchanan Presidents since the days of Van Buren have been rejected for their devotion to the interests of the slave power, and their administrations have demonstrated that the only oligarchy of the South were not mistaken in the instruments which they selected to carry out their schemes.

As to the old Whig party, it is to be regretted that they were unable to hold him above the position of a third-rate "Terror-bogy."

The entire line of Buchanan Presidents since the days of Van Buren have been rejected for their devotion to the interests of the slave power, and their administrations have demonstrated that the only oligarchy of the South were not mistaken in the instruments which they selected to carry out their schemes.

As to the old Whig party, it is to be regretted that they were unable to hold him above the position of a third-rate "Terror-bogy."

The entire line of Buchanan Presidents since the days of Van Buren have been rejected for their devotion to the interests of the slave power, and their administrations have demonstrated that the only oligarchy of the South were not mistaken in the instruments which they selected to carry out their schemes.

As to the old Whig party, it is to be regretted that they were unable to hold him above the position of a third-rate "Terror-bogy."

The entire line of Buchanan Presidents since the days of Van Buren have been rejected for their devotion to the interests of the slave power, and their administrations have demonstrated that the only oligarchy of the South were not mistaken in the instruments which they selected to carry out their schemes.

As to the old Whig party, it is to be regretted that they were unable to hold him above the position of a third-rate "Terror-bogy."

The entire line of Buchanan Presidents since the days of Van Buren have been rejected for their devotion to the interests of the slave power, and their administrations have demonstrated that the only oligarchy of the South were not mistaken in the instruments which they selected to carry out their schemes.

As to the old Whig party, it is to be regretted that they were unable to hold him above the position of a third-rate "Terror-bogy."

The entire line of Buchanan Presidents since the days of Van Buren have been rejected for their devotion to the interests of the slave power, and their administrations have demonstrated that the only oligarchy of the South were not mistaken in the instruments which they selected to carry out their schemes.

As to the old Whig party, it is to be regretted that they were unable to hold him above the position of a third-rate "Terror-bogy."

The entire line of Buchanan Presidents since the days of Van Buren have been rejected for their devotion to the interests of the slave power, and their administrations have demonstrated that the only oligarchy of the South were not mistaken in the instruments which they selected to carry out their schemes.

As to the old Whig party, it is to be regretted that they were unable to hold him above the position of a third-rate "Terror-bogy."

The entire line of Buchanan Presidents since the days of Van Buren have been rejected for their devotion to the interests of the slave power, and their administrations have demonstrated that the only oligarchy of the South were not mistaken in the instruments which they selected to carry out their schemes.

As to the old Whig party, it is to be regretted that they were unable to hold him above the position of a third-rate "Terror-bogy."

The entire line of Buchanan Presidents since the days of Van Buren have been rejected for their devotion to the interests of the slave power, and their administrations have demonstrated that the only oligarchy of the South were not mistaken in the instruments which they selected to carry out their schemes.

As to the old Whig party, it is to be regretted that they were unable to hold him above the position of a third-rate "Terror-bogy."

The entire line of Buchanan Presidents since the days of Van Buren have been rejected for their devotion to the interests of the slave power, and their administrations have demonstrated that the only oligarchy of the South were not mistaken in the instruments which they selected to carry out their schemes.

As to the old Whig party, it is to be regretted that they were unable to hold him above the position of a third-rate "Terror-bogy."

The entire line of Buchanan Presidents since the days of Van Buren have been rejected for their devotion to the interests of the slave power, and their administrations have demonstrated that the only oligarchy of the South were not mistaken in the instruments which they selected to carry out their schemes.

As to the old Whig party, it is to be regretted that they were unable to hold him above the position of a third-rate "Terror-bogy."

The entire line of Buchanan Presidents since the days of Van Buren have been rejected for their devotion to the interests of the slave power, and their administrations have demonstrated that the only oligarchy of the South were not mistaken in the instruments which they selected to carry out their schemes.

As to the old Whig party, it is to be regretted that they were unable to hold him above the position of a third-rate "Terror-bogy."

The entire line of Buchanan Presidents since the days of Van Buren have been rejected for their devotion to the interests of the slave power, and their administrations have demonstrated that the only oligarchy of the South were not mistaken in the instruments which they selected to carry out their schemes.

As to the old Whig party, it is to be regretted that they were unable to hold him above the position of a third-rate "Terror-bogy."

The entire line of Buchanan Presidents since the days of Van Buren have been rejected for their devotion to the interests of the slave power, and their administrations have demonstrated that the only oligarchy of the South were not mistaken in the instruments which they selected to carry out their schemes.

As to the old Whig party, it is to be regretted that they were unable to hold him above the position of a third-rate "Terror-bogy."

The entire line of Buchanan Presidents since the days of Van Buren have been rejected for their devotion to the interests of the slave power, and their administrations have demonstrated that the only oligarchy of the South were not mistaken in the instruments which they selected to carry out their schemes.

As to the old Whig party, it is to be regretted that they were unable to hold him above the position of a third-rate "Terror-bogy."

The entire line of Buchanan Presidents since the days of Van Buren have been rejected for their devotion to the interests of the slave power, and their administrations have demonstrated that the only oligarchy of the South were not mistaken in the instruments which they selected to carry out their schemes.

As to the old Whig party, it is to be regretted that they were unable to hold him above the position of a third-rate "Terror-bogy."

The entire line of Buchanan Presidents since the days of Van Buren have been rejected for their devotion to the interests of the slave power, and their administrations have demonstrated that the only oligarchy of the South were not mistaken in the instruments which they selected to carry out their schemes.

As to the old Whig party, it is to be regretted that they were unable to hold him above the position of a third-rate "Terror-bogy."

The entire line of Buchanan Presidents since the days of Van Buren have been rejected for their devotion to the interests of the slave power, and their administrations have demonstrated that the only oligarchy of the South were not mistaken in the instruments which they selected to carry out their schemes.

As to the old Whig party, it is to be regretted that they were unable to hold him above the position of a third-rate "Terror-bogy."

The entire line of Buchanan Presidents since the days of Van Buren have been rejected for their devotion to the interests of the slave power, and their administrations have demonstrated that the only oligarchy of the South were not mistaken in the instruments which they selected to carry out their schemes.

As to the old Whig party, it is to be regretted that they were unable to hold him above the position of a third-rate "Terror-bogy."

The entire line of Buchanan Presidents since the days of Van Buren have been rejected for their devotion to the interests of the slave power, and their administrations have demonstrated that the only oligarchy of the South were not mistaken in the instruments which they selected to carry out their schemes.

As to the old Whig party, it is to be regretted that they were unable to hold him above the position of a third-rate "Terror-bogy."

The entire line of Buchanan Presidents since the days of Van Buren have been rejected for their devotion to the interests of the slave power, and their administrations have demonstrated that the only oligarchy of the South were not mistaken in the instruments which they selected to carry out their schemes.

As to the old Whig party, it is to be regretted that they were unable to hold him above the position of a third-rate "Terror-bogy."

The entire line of Buchanan Presidents since the days of Van Buren have been rejected for their devotion to the interests of the slave power, and their administrations have demonstrated that the only oligarchy of the South were not mistaken in the instruments which they selected to carry out their schemes.

As to the old Whig party, it is to be regretted that they were unable to hold him above the position of a third-rate "Terror-bogy."

The entire line of Buchanan Presidents since the days of Van Buren have been rejected for their devotion to the interests of the slave power, and their administrations have demonstrated that the only oligarchy of the South were not mistaken in the instruments which they selected to carry out their schemes.

As to the old Whig party, it is to be regretted that they were unable to hold him above the position of a third-rate "Terror-bogy."

The entire line of Buchanan Presidents since the days of Van Buren have been rejected for their devotion to the interests of the slave power, and their administrations have demonstrated that the only oligarchy of the South were not mistaken in the instruments which they selected to carry out their schemes.

As to the old Whig party, it is to be regretted that they were unable to hold him above the position of a third-rate "Terror-bogy."

